Kaleidoscope

1959

Foreward

Kaleidoscopic scenes,
Always to be remembered,
Laying a foundation for our lives,
Echoing work and play, are pictured
In this book.
Do come with us through the door which will
Open to you a panoramic view of our
Six years at G.P.S.,
Composed,
Organized, and Prepared
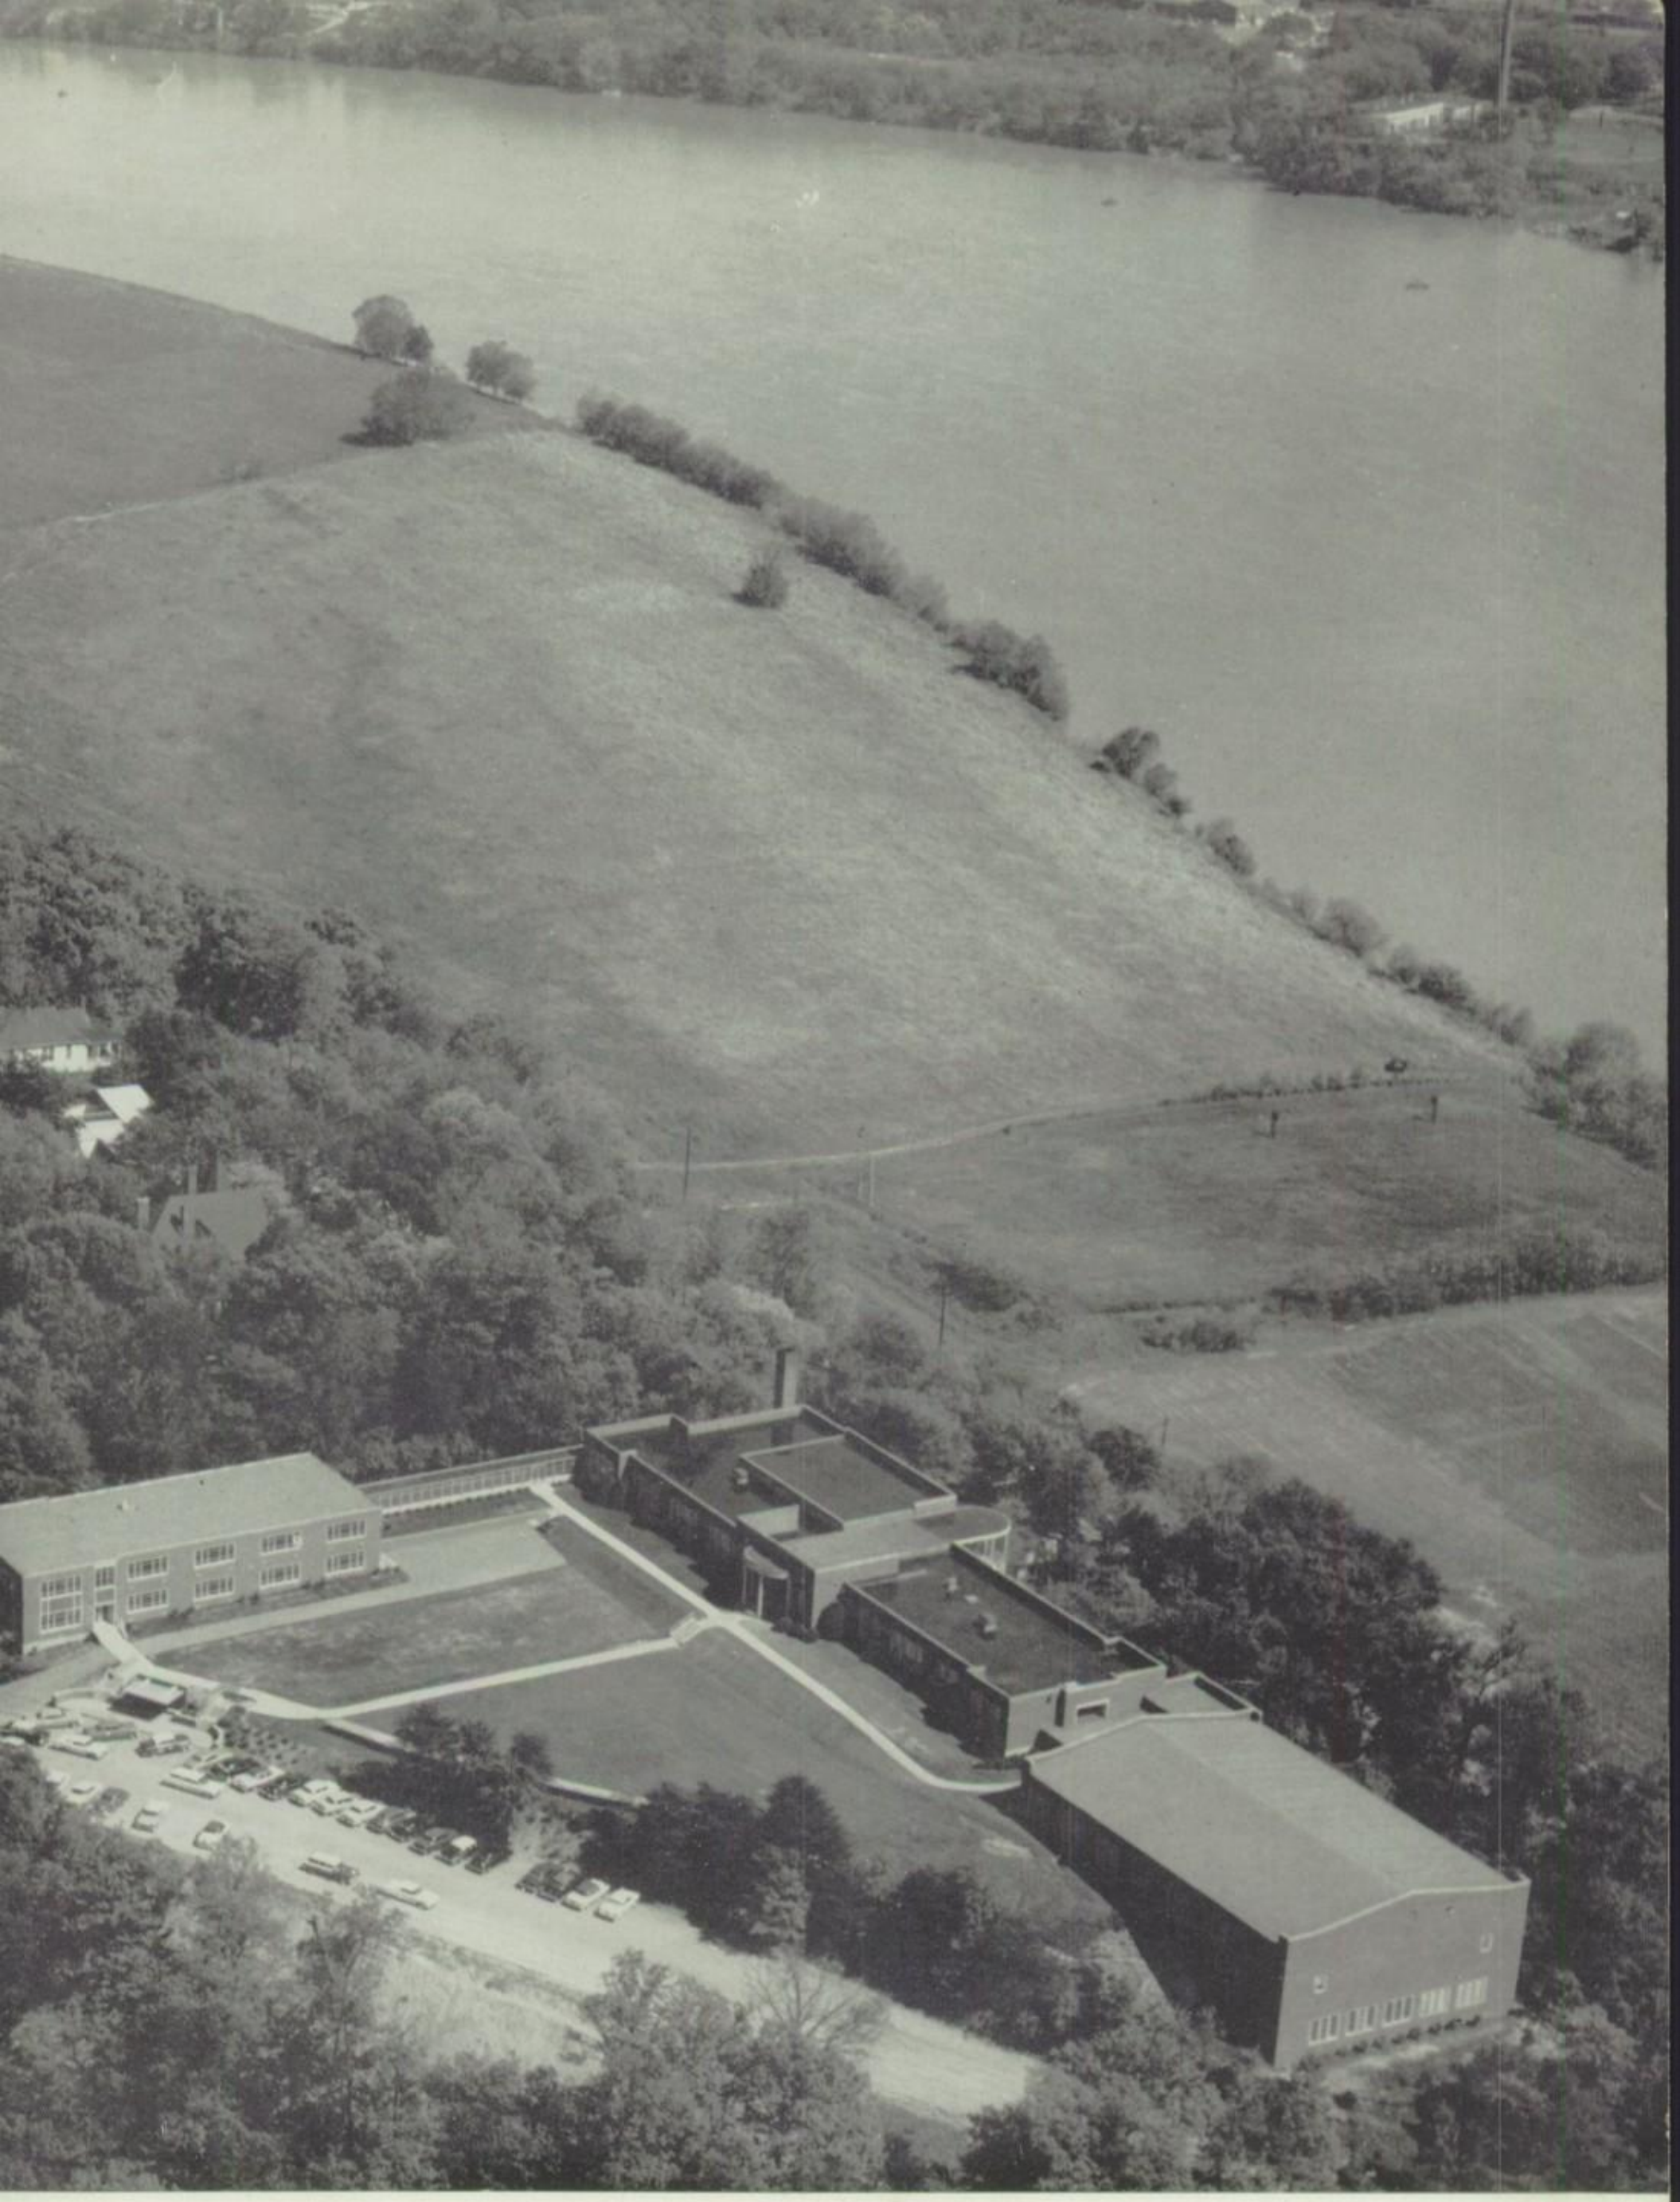
Especially for you.

Girls Preparatory School

Chattanooga, Tennessee

Tennis Courts — Aerial View of the Campus of GIRLS' PREPARATORY SCHOOL, 1959



New Junior School Building — Administration Building — Gymnasium

Dedication

MISS LOIS EILEEN MOYER

To Miss Moyer, whose patience and good humor made the learning of mathematics an exciting adventure for many of us and who almost unraveled the enigma for others, we, the Senior Class of 1959, gratefully dedicate this Kaleidoscope.

Dedication

MRS. GODWIN WILLIAMS, JR.

To Mrs. Williams, whose sharp wit and engaging candor helped to channel our Eighth Grade foolishness and high spirits into self-reliance and good citizenship, we, the Senior Class, affectionately dedicate this, the 1959 Kaleidoscope.

Student Council

Miss Mary E. Smith, Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mrs. A. J. Poston.

Kay Verlenden, Secretary; Elizabeth Ann Tessmann, President; Ginger Grant, Vice-President.

Our Student Council is composed of representatives from each class. By solving problems concerning school and by setting examples for the rest of the student body, the members fulfill their goal—promoting high ideals, increasing school spirit, and fostering recreational and scholastic activities.

Service League

Membership in the Duffy-Jarnigan Chapter of the National Honor Society is one of the principal honors a G.P.S. girl can receive. To be unanimously elected by the faculty committee, a girl must have qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Only Juniors and Seniors are eligible for membership in the Society.

Susan Auten, Judy McKenzie, Betsy Gould, Mary Charles McPhail.

Library Club

Joy Ulin, Charlotte Jones, Judy Kayler, Nan Norman, June Milton, Margaret Chandler.

Mrs. T. W. Bridge, Sponsor; Sandra Unruh, President; Martha Jo Anderson, Secretary.

The Library Club, composed of Freshmen, keeps the library in order for the students' use. These are the girls who have excelled in eighth grade English. Their main project is arranging the library posters.

Becky Evans, Joan Morton, Becky Rolston, Judy Haley, Phyllis Smith, Eleanor DeLong.

ANNUAL

BOARD

1959

Annual Board

EDITORS: Starlet and Patsy

1. Argued loud enough and long enough to force others to agree so that there would be some hope of getting home by six o'clock.
2. Wrote successfully everything they could not inveigle others into writing for them — for example, The Foreward, Dedication, Class Write-ups.
3. Edited the biggest and best and most unusual annual yet.

SUPPLY MANAGER: Gatewood

1. Ran the book store to make a profit.
2. Cleaned up on "Lost and Found".
3. Was "general flunkie".
4. Paid for the biggest and best and most unusual annual yet.

PICTURE EDITORS: Paulette, Kay, Patricia

1. Were eminently successful in sending every girl to Lovemans to have her picture made and proofs returned on time.
2. Did not succumb to a nervous breakdown over group and activity pictures or have a heart attack over misplacing of a picture.
3. Remembered to call Mr. Hinkle before every tea, play, dance, and game.
4. Made this biggest and best and most unusual annual yet really represent the school's activities in pictures.

LITERARY EDITORS: Elaine and Carole

1. Actually induced each Splinter to write up the class that she represented.
2. Carefully used research on each class organization for its aims, sponsors, and members.
3. Patiently read all senior write-ups, senior histories, prophecies, and wills then rewrote them to suit themselves.
4. Wrote the most complete write-ups ever in this biggest and best and most unusual annual yet.

ART EDITORS: Alice, Nancy and Kayla

1. Spent long hours after school and at home in making layouts, designing divisional pages, lettering and pasting and drawing.
2. Tried courageously to understand directions of Mr. Smith, our engraver, who gives so many instructions that we forget what we asked him in the first place.
3. Produced the most attractive art work in this biggest and best and most unusual annual yet.

SPONSOR: Mrs. Clark

1. Gave us ideas and corrected our mistakes.
2. Kept us out of each other's hair.
3. Helped us organize chaos into the biggest and best and most unusual annual yet.

The Splinters, selected for their literary ability, help the Annual Board by doing the write-ups for their respective classes.

"Static"

The "Static," the G.P.S. newspaper, is a project of the Junior Class. This year Charlotte Wheland heads the staff of eleven juniors and five sophomores, who strive to uphold the standard, "of the school, by the school, for the school." Miss Roberta Moore, the sponsor, deserves much credit for her hard work to make the paper a success.

MISS JO FRANCES FLEWELLEN, General Chairman — MISS CAROL FLETCHER

"OVER THE RAINBOW"

When deep purple is the mood
And the raindrops tumble down,
Heaven opens a magic lane,
And a rainbow highway is found.

Somewhere over the rainbow
Beyond the sun's bright ray
Is a lullaby land I've heard of,
Where happiness reigns all day.

Somewhere over the rainbow
Skies are Hawaiian blue,
And the dreams you've dared to dream of
Always do come true.

Here there is fun and frolic,
And hearts are young and gay,
Here there are songs and dancing
To while the hours away.

Someday I'll wish upon a star,
And a cloud will be my bed.
I'll find my blues far behind,
They'll be lemon drops instead.

Somewhere over the rainbow,
Bluebirds fly so free.
Pots of gold will be waiting there,
Why not for you and Me?

HISTORY 7

Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted us the way to the college world,
Out, out midnight oil
Students are but walking shadows, poor simples,
That fret and finally pass their year over the books
And remember facts no more.

It seems such a long time ago that we were the seventh grade "babies"[7], all decked out in light blue. The first few days, however, it wasn't light blue that we were gaily arrayed in, but lamp shades, pajamas, cigarette packages, bathing suits and high heels. It seemed also that we dropped our books at the commands of our senior cats more often than we carried them and that we were invariably late to every class. Although we did enjoy Rat Week, we were all relieved when Rosa Wright was chosen "Best Rat" and the seniors took us to see "Shane" at the Tivoli. Bells-bells-bells- what did they all mean? We soon found out—and about Friday Study Hall, too. It hung over our young, unknowing heads like the sword of Damocles. Much excitement! The class elected officers—and who led us through this adventuresome year? Starlet, with Faye, Carole and Patsy W. composing the staff. We also made a discovery. The Blacks and Blues are rival teams in athletics, not some fearful society as we had all suspected. What fun we had challenging Mrs. Armstrong to badminton matches! Don't ask who won! Some of us really began running in high society that year—those big junior school dances at McCallie and Baylor. Most of us indulged in dancing lessons and enjoyed our first big formal dance. At Christmas we all dressed up as angels and tried to keep our halos straight, but Lydia managed to get hers on upside down. Then it was second semester and guess what? We got to help run the Student Council with Linda Swanson and Frances Wynns as representatives. We were soon animated again as we got to dance in May Day. What did we get to be that year? Pink and blue fairies and dark and light green trees—because the older girls definitely wanted to be something else. I think we all enjoyed our first year at GPS because the teachers and upperclassmen were understanding and helpful.

The eighth grade[8] was quite a year for both our class and the teachers who tried to hold us in line. All of us remember how we were considered one of the worst classes to come to GPS. It's certainly a fact that we had more Friday Study Halls than any other class. Carole, who tried to keep us little delinquents on the right path, was aided by Judy M., Susan H., and Sandy. Paulette represented our disorderly crew on Honor Court, and Linda S. on the Student Council. With the aid of Mrs. Glenn, Ann Travis and Sylvia D. showed their singing ability at the annual talent show. Faye, Donna, Ginger, Judy M., Carole, Susan H., Susan S., Jean B., and Sylvia M. gave a fine performance in our play, "Judy Takes Over." That year our class began to blossom, as we were allowed to join clubs. A lot of us joined the Know Your Bible Club and the Junior Glee Club. When May Day rolled around, we were dream tormentors and rhythm dancers. The rhythm dancers were terrified at the thought of having to wear leotards in front of so many people, but they managed to live through the Grand Production. When we remember all the many wonderful experiences in the eighth grade, we always think of the former Mrs. Kennedy. Who can ever forget the day she threw Mary D's shoes out the window or the day when she put a tack in Starlet's chair? We will always remember our many eighth grade experiences, but let's take a look into our freshman year.

8 Eighth Grade Lassies—Lost: Robbie Kaset, Julie Moreland, Nancy Pruitt and Patricia Sherlock. Gained: Eleanor Drosten, Jean Duffy, Jo Frances Flewellen, Patricia Jacobs, Mary Richardson, Ann Travis, Carolyn Tuley.

HISTORY 9

Verdant freshmen[9]—and how we were verdant! We had our fingers in a little of everything. To calm us down, Ginger, our president; Helen V., Carole, Paulette and Linda S. took a hand. Dust flew and books fell. Who but the Library Club of ten headed by Patsy W. could make such a racket? They certainly did the job. Kathy, Susan H., and Kitty helped keep us in good voice for the Junior Glee Club, while in the art of dancing we performed "L'Allegro" and "Il Penseroso", or diagrammed sentences in May Day. In our play Connelly, Elizabeth Ann, Pinky, Patsy, M.V.H. and Ginger proved their skill as actresses. Connelly brought down the house as Liz spanked her. There was much competition with Liz trying to get us to bring money, clothes and canned food and with Judy M., and Frances, calling us to support our black and blue teams. All three calls were enthusiastically received. In the social whirl was "Two Tickets to Broadway," which was the theme of our first school dance. Poor Elaine had to sit on the sidelines the whole dance because somehow (it's still a mystery) she managed to turn the bleachers over on her toe. Our freshman trip to Nashville will never be forgotten, especially for those who spilled finger nail polish everywhere, who sang "The Wayward Wind" all the time, who rode in the luggage racks, and who walked bare-footed through the Hermitage. Do your remember the sign in the Parthenon that said "No food or bottles allowed inside"? Claudia should—because she spilled crackers on the floor and her coke bottle went rolling across the room. To climax a wonderful year, our Liz won the freshman cup at Class Day; and before we knew it, we were gay, young Sophomores.

9 Verdant Freshmen—Gained: Claudia Bibb, Debby Conger, Nancy Dickert, Judy Glass; 2nd semester: Ximena Tagle. Lost: Jane Boriss, Celie Boykin, Mary Davenport, Sylvia Delaney, Susan Hamilton.

HISTORY 10

Did you say gay and young? Yes, we were gay, young sophomores[10]. Just think, some of us can really drive the car now—legally! Liz, with Kiki, Jean B., Mary Virginia, Faye, and Ginger as inspectors rounded up our fun-loving crew. Our class really began to blossom as never before. Joyce led C.Y.C.; Jean B. the Junior Theatre Arts; Pinky, Welfare; Starlet, Joyce, Paulette, Frances and Patsy W. helped the Juniors edit the "Static." With Frances and Susan H. behind our blacks and blues, we had girls from both teams on the varsity—Judy M., Liz, and Pee Wee on basketball, and Liz, Carole, and Frances on volleyball. Our sophomore year saw the initiation of a new club at G.P.S.—the Pantaloon Club—that sang its swan song almost before it got a good start. Did you say "The Perfect Date"? Yes, our dramatic abilities again! What could be a more appropriate title for such an outstanding performance presented by our own actresses, Jean B., Pinky, Mary Virginia, Donna, Ginger, Kathy, Susan S., Carole, Liz, Judy, Jill and Lori? Then during the intermission of the Freshman-Sophomore Dance, we practically had to pull the boys off the stage when our dazzling sophomores performed. The year was climaxed when Gatewood, Mary Virginia, Lori, Jean S., Rosa, Ginger, and PeeWee had leading parts in May Day. Confusion reigned as the rest of the class wound the May Poles.

HISTORY 11

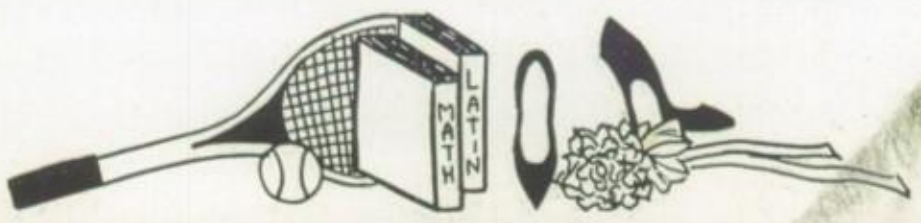
As Jolly Juniors[11] we found ourselves in the midst of a mad whirl all the time. For this eventful year we chose Paulette for our conductor with Patsy W., Lynda B. and Pinky as our chief engineers. Ginger, Elizabeth Ann, and Faye represented us on the Student Council. For our dance that year we transformed the study hall into "Hernando's Hideaway", complete with check-clothed cafe tables. Everyone agreed that this was one of the best dances we had ever had. That year seven from our ranks made the National Honor Society; they were Joyce, Carole, Ginger, Patsy W., Elaine, Frances, and Liz. The main event this year naturally was our trip to Washington and New York. It was almost the trip to end all trips because we gave Miss Moyer, Miss Moore and Mrs. Howard a pretty rough time of it. On February 28, we invaded the train station, each girl lugging her "one medium-sized suitcase." How can we ever forget all the many things that happened on our trip; Miss Moyer's voice echoing through the car, "clear the aisles!", the free morning in New York when some of us went shopping and others tried their luck at ice-skating? We all had a wonderful time, but we had to admit that home looked pretty good to us when we finally piled off the train. In May Day that year some of us dressed as Indian dancers, complete with dark complexions, and the rest of us portrayed the good ole U.S.A. After our class struggled through College Boards in May, some of us wondered whether or not we should plan to go to college—but then there was always next year to improve. We had a big showing Class Day. Patsy W. won the English award; Pinky, the Math; Elaine, the Spanish; Patsy J., the Latin. Joyce received the Grace McCallie Scholarship, and Ginger, the Senior Scholarship. Thus ended what many of us considered our best year at G.P.S.

11 Jolly Juniors—Gained: Julia Cate, Kayla Griffith. Lost: Bonnie Blevins, Lesley Colburn, Mary Richardson, Sandy Siskin, Jill Street, Carolyn Tuley, Rosa Wright.

HISTORY 12

It doesn't seem possible, but we are actually Seniors[12]. It seems such a short time since our cats were telling us what to do, and now we can pounce on our own rats. None of us will ever forget the party we gave for our rats at Patsy W's house, when Miss Moyer hit a home run in the softball game. As the year continued, Starlet and the rest of the Annual Board worked diligently on the Kaleidoscope. Joyce and Mena tried their best to get our money for the Welfare Drive. In November, we gave a dance, "Football Days," in the study hall and we embarrassed our dates by showing pictures of them in their younger days. Maybe the theme of our dance gave the more energetic members of the class the idea of playing football on the front lawn. Who knows whether they were trying to play football or trying to kill each other? This year is really the deciding factor on who will be the first to have a nervous breakdown. The chapel talk was something we had dreaded since the seventh grade, but every girl gave a wonderful speech. Fear can't stop our class. Under the leadership of our President, Susan H., and the other officers, Kathy and Nancy K., we endeavored to increase our school spirit, and the campaign turned out a success. The word around school for a long time was "Beat Notre Dame!" At Christmas, Linda Dickson led the Glee Club in practicing for the program with McCallie. At the first induction of the National Honor Society, two from our ranks, Patsy J. and Kathy, were called to the stage. *The second semester, Judy McKenzie was the only senior inducted. After much hard work and many midnight hours, we turned in our term papers April fifteenth, and began to think about May Day. Lynda reigned as our beautiful queen and Jean B. as our lovely Maid of Honor. Now that another year is ending, it is almost impossible for us to realize that this is the end of our days at G.P.S. As we look back over the last six years, some of the memories still clearly linger, while others have grown a little dim. An old newspaper clipping, a no-break card, a snapshot, a train ticket—all of these and many more are only the lifeless symbols that bring to mind the wonderful times of days gone by, but it is with great hope and expectation that we leave G.P.S. to go our separate ways into the college world.

12 Grand Old Seniors—Gained: No one. Lost: Eleanor Drosten, Julia Cate.



Class Will

We, the class of 1959, being of sound body but of doubtful state of mind, do make this, our last will and testament.

We, Jody Bacon, Jean Battle, and Nancy Keese, will the opportunity of going to our new school to all the future P.G.'s who can't quite decide where to go to school . . . they know who they are.

We, Claudia Bibb and Eleanor Tarver, will our ability to stay out of trouble to Nancy Jane Moore, who never gets into any.

I, Lynda Boone, always calm, cool and collected, will my knack for getting into an embarrassing situation to Hazel Bickerstaff, who always has situations under control.

I, Kathy Caldwell, will my youngest sister Tee to my sister Mopsy in the hope that Mopsy can make her understand that a lady doesn't kick people in the shins.

We, Debby Conger and Donna DeLong, being lab partners and having proved the old law that if anything can go wrong with an experiment it will and that the failure of an experiment is directly proportional to the amount of broken equipment, will our outstanding lab technique to future chemistry classes in the hope that Mrs. Ingwalson doesn't have a nervous breakdown.

We, Bonnie Craig and Mary Scott Thach, will our red noses to Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer.

I, Joyce Cummings, will the presidency of our gym class's Uncoordinated Club to anyone who has the ability to kick a soccer ball and hit herself in the face.

I, Sylvia Delaney, will my chapel talk to any unprepared Junior who might need it.

We, Linda Dickson and Elizabeth Ann Tessmann, will our pony tails to Yul Brynner.

I, Elaine Donnelly, will my enormous feet to Ellen Montague, who has such small, petite ones.

I, Nancy Drake, will my memories of our class trip to Washington and New York to this year's quiet, reserved Junior Class, which seemed to have a very unexciting time.

I, Jean Duffy, will my grace to my sister Karen, who is such a clumsy "ox", poor child.

I, Kay Fleming, will my perfect composure in history class to some member of the Sophomore history class.

I, Jo Frances Flewellen, will my winning personality to Jeanne Byrd, who seems to have such a hard time in making friends.

I, Gatewood Folger, will my love of 115 to Maria Pitner, who spends as much time in there collecting lost sweaters as I do selling supplies.

I, Janice Garrett, will my love for Signal Mountain to all the lucky girls who will be up there next year.

I, Carole Goins, will my driver's license to Jean Fletcher for two years so she can drive her red convertible to school.

I, Ginger Grant, will take my Pinkie Lee to college with me to keep me warm.

I, Kayla Griffith, will my natural ability to make the Star Honor Roll to Mary Heald, who tries in vain.

We, Mary Virginia Harrison, Starlet Light, Jean Spears, and Sylvia May, will our acute math ability back to Miss Moyer, so that she may understand why xyz always equaled chaos in our class.

I, Nancy Knight Harrison, will my height and 20-20 vision to anyone who is so unfortunate as to need both.

I, Helen Hobbs, will my good posture and coordination to next year's gym class.

We, Susan Howard, Faye Lebovitz, and Paulette Painter, will our ability to say the wrong thing at the right time in the hope that the school will still be laughing after we've gone.

I, Patricia Jacobs, will my contact lenses to Carol Corbitt; maybe she can wear them.

I, Kitty Kistler, will my ability to goof in chemistry experiments to next year's chemistry class in the hope that they will discover something by accident. Good luck, Mrs. Ingwalson!

I, Lori Levin, do hereby will the wires on my braces to the bells of the new building in the hope of making their tune more melodious.

I, Carlotta Lockmiller, will my use of the slide rule to anybody who is not mathematically inclined; it is sure to help them.

I, Judy McKenzie, will a small bit of my front yard to Laura Smartt, Corinne Goree, and Martha Jo Anderson so that they can pitch a tent to keep an eye on my cute next-door neighbor, Tommy.

I, Connelly Parks, will my ability to catch on to a joke to Janet, my sister, who has to explain them all to me.

I, Judy Roberts, will my Monday morning pep and vitality to Drewry Payne.

I, Susan Seaborn, will my roving eye to the Roving Reporter of next year's Static in the hope that it will be as beneficial to her as it has been to me.

I, Peewee Shamhart, will my fruit boots back to any "fruit" who has nerve enough to wear them.

I, Mena Tagle, will my Spanish accent to Mrs. Reed.

I, Susan Todd, will my perfect attendance record to anyone who likes Saturday School.

I, Helen Vander Horst, will my ability to give friendly advice and constructive criticism to my sister Ella, who never says a word.

I, Mignonne Weber, will my hair to the Art Studio for paint brushes.

I, Patsy Williams, will my nickname "Pasty" to the members of next year's Annual Board, who will soon know what it means to be "all stuck up" with the cement glue in 115.

I, Nancy Williams, will my tremendous height to any future Senior who wishes to spend all her time looking up at Seventh Graders.

I, Linda Joy Wilson, will my ability not to understand to next year's Senior math class.

I, Alice Wright, will the broken radiator of my green "rod" to Linda Turnbull, who is such an efficient mechanic.

I, Frances Wynns, will my statuesque and slender figure and my excellent posture to my sister Charlotte, who is so short and dumpy.

Class Prophecy

Tea leaves scattered in a bowl,
While I wonder and I wait,
Show me all, each aim, each goal,
The dreams come true of each classmate.

Jody, always laughter and fun,
Has earned herself a great reputation.
Besides raising oranges in the tropical sun,
On water skis she's quite a sensation.

Jean Battle has finally given up sports—
Those basketball shots she was always hitting.
Here's a new twist; by the latest reports
Our fine athlete has taken up knitting.

Claudia has entered a new profession;
In complete happiness now she dwells,
Stating only this one confession,
In making Baylor rings she now excels.

In Chinese or Russian, take your pick
Of Boone's translations—Cicero in Rhyme.
To our May Queen this is no trick—
She's having quite an erudite time.

Happily married, with four sons too,
And a patent for "Lazy Lady" cake mix,
Kathy's dreamed up something new:
Bridge 'specially made for a family of six.

Debby's settled down in style,
With dogs, and horses, and her lakes.
In her spare time she passes the while
Perfecting her new streamlined ice skates.

Who's that bombshell? Look, it's Bonnie,
Still vivacious as one could choose.
Surrounded by every Dick and Ronnie
She's teaching the "Gone Moon Blues."

Here's Joycoise, an up and doer;
Vote for Cummings all the way.
Her career's well-planned and sure,
First woman president of the U.S.A.

Statuesque, tall, and sleek
Sylvia's a model, gay and airy.
With suitors every night of the week,
She's having too much fun to marry.

Donna Gay has really let loose—
Science is well within her reach.
She's putting her calculus to use
Inventing new theorems for Miss Moyer to teach.

Linda's across the ocean in Bimbombay,
Sitting as an empress in a palace hall,
She rules her kingdom with no weak sway
And watches her subjects as to her they crawl.

Elaine has two new interests now,
Fan and player of ice hockey,
Another amazing feat, and how,
She's Chicago's top disc jockey.

Vogue, Seventeen, it's no fancy,
Not too much work for her to arrive—
New York designer, yes, that's Nancy,
Going on husband number five.

Jean Duffy, with her suppressed desire,
Is now full owner of a fair.
She urges lions through hoops of fire,
While balancing on tiptoe in mid-air.

Kay, one never short of words,
Has made a hit in her old age.
She's distinguished from the herds
As the "December Bride" of screen and stage.

There's Jo Frances—She's really a whiz,
To do something different always her wish,
Inventor of ginger ale with that extra fiz,
While raising kids and tropical fish.

Gatewood's an athlete, believe it or not,
To be a track star was her destined fate.
Always such a squeamish tot,
She's scheduled for the Olympics of '68.

Hail true talent in our land,
Janice is really doing well.
Sponsor of the American Band Stand,
She dances and sings—our Southern belle.

Carole's way up there, almost a myth.
Intelligentsia always was her line.
She's now president of Vassar and Smith;
Our mountain gal is doing just fine.

Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey,
Man on the flying trapeze,
Our versatile Ginger, practicing daily
To imitate the monkeys in the palmetto trees.

From South Pittsburg to New York City
As we all knew, she's doing swell.
With her personality and humor witty,
Kayla's rejuvenating Norman Rockwell.

Queen of the faux pas and the hoax,
Entertainer, she with her sparkling wit,
Mary Virginia's new book of jokes
Has made a universal hit.

Nancy Knight's in Hong Kong.
Always in a big rush.
She's composed a new song
Called "Rum and Orange Crush."

In the jungles, in the Congo,
Helen always one for chills and thrills
Now captures rare animals
And for a prize some others kills.

It's opening night for Susan Howard
In her very own show, none the less,
Her wit has the audience overpowered
As a comedian Susie's a real success.

Patricia never walks alone.
The "Golden Voice" of the U.S.A.
A religious director, she's also known
From the Metropolitan to the best D.J.

A farmer's wife is our Nancy Keese.
Early to bed, early to rise,
Out before daybreak to feed the geese
Makes her healthy, wealthy, and wise.

Yesterday as I was riding in my car,
I saw a sign, "Get your Kistler Pool Today."
Kitty's idea must have been up to par,
'Cause now she manufactures a product that pays.

Faye, always the neatest, has made a transition.
In patched-up clothes and a hat that is floppy,
Today she holds a different position;
She's writing a book entitled How to Be Sloppy.

Lori's on another spree,
Travelling from Maine to Maine.
Right now she's in Gay Paree;
Tomorrow she'll be in Spain.

Starlet's in Florida, continually dieting,
Munching on lemons and limes.
Aside from that she's causing near rioting,
By editing The Okeechobee Times.

A northern accent, how she's changed!
It's Carlotta and none other,
Among her duties she's arranged
To be the Kappa Sig house mother.

Judy McKenzie's at home theese days
Since she made her trip to Mars.
Now she's completely altered her ways;
She's busy rearing McCallie wrestling stars.

A chemist she is, oh glory day!
Mixing new dyes and tints.
You'll find in the lab our own Sylvia May;
Testing nitric and sulfuric scents.

There's a picture Paulette took!
Armed with camera, she'll not bungle.
Feature photographer now for Look,
Her latest safari's to the African jungle.

Where, of where, is Connelly Parks?
What has she done since graduation day?
I hear she's a diver, harpooning sharks,
Working on the bottom of Montego Bay.

Ah, Judy's now running a wholesale mart
Of old letters and sweaters and class rings.
She couldn't be classed as ought but smart
'Cause on the side she still has her flings.

Sue Seaborn visits ancient halls;
She's now an avid old world scholar.
Her industry, making tennis balls,
Never leaves her without that needed dollar.

In T.V. Guide's printed pages
Comes Peewee's antics, a program for midgets,
Her jokes and jests alarm the sages,
But let them scorn her; her fortune has eight digits.

Beauty, the everlasting grace,
Is Jean's acclaim to joy.
A gracious figure and lovely face
Are still winning her boy after boy.

A Spanish rose, a Spanish smile,
A great deal of ease and relaxation
Has proved well worth Mena's while;
She's now the head of the United Nations.

Eleanor, who once had an enviable figure,
Has put a few inches on her hips.
What's the reason? Can't you conjecture?
She's the official taster of Gordon's Potato Chips.

Lizzy Ann's life has taken quite a turn;
She used to receive medals and make long speeches.
The life of intellect she decided to spurn,
So now she makes her living combing beaches.

Lady of leisure now, Mary Scott,
Chairman of many guilds and boards.
She has a mountain home when it gets hot,
Where she raises flowers and cultivates gourds.

Professor Todd, Susan's teaching
College trig, of all things.
That's what all Miss Moyer's preaching
Of slide rules and angles brings.

Way down in the deep deep South,
Where hospitality flows like water,
Helen V. runs a boarding school on the river's mouth
Which most cultured southern belles call Alma Mater.

Mignonne is the artist's delight.
She paints her objects on a slant.
Her work continues late at night,
Trying, I guess, to emulate Rembrandt.

Phi Beta Kappa key, Phi Kappa Phi,
These are only two of Patsy's feats.
Except for her heart throb, that lovable guy,
She'd now sit in M.I.T.'s president's seat.

Nancy Williams is in Italy now,
Doing impersonations of Leonardo.
She's up on the stage, taking her bow,
Modeling a striped leotardo.

L. J.'s making specs for the masses,
A different color for every dress.
The only trouble is, Who wears glasses?
They've all got contacts now, what a mess.

Down in the midst of London town, surrounded by fog,
I hear Alice has taken residence.
She and MacMillan are G.B.'s two top dogs;
They run the country under the title Co-Presidents.

Frances, of course, is in Rock City
On Lover's Leap, enjoying the breeze.
How she struggles—oh, what a pity—
To get thru the Fat Man's Squeeze.

And now that we have seen each friend,
The tea leaves wake us up once more;
So Susan, Frances, and Susan pretend
To see what life will hold in store.

MY TRUE SECURITY

What is security—the security for which all the world is searching, for which each individual cries? To some, security is popularity, good looks, money, love, a happy family life, intelligence, a pretty new dress, perhaps even food. Yes, each in its particular way provides a source of security.

To the high school senior security is the feeling of belonging to the group, popularity. Joe, for instance, had always wanted to be head of the student body, the highest honor in school. Election time came. Joe with his friends diligently campaigned and won the election. "I know people like me, for I would not have been elected," thought Joe. "Who could ever find better success and happiness." Joe even won the highest athletic and scholastic honors Commencement Day. Yet as the years passed, these honors, this popularity waned, became a dream of the past. Honors, at the present, are thrills and a moment's, maybe a year's or a few years' pride, satisfaction and security. Joe looked back. Not one of those honors means anything to him now. In old age his security did not rest on temporary honors. What did he lack??

There is John, a successful tycoon, literally rolling in money. How secure most people would feel if they had all that money. Why he can do anything, be anything, have anything. His business never fails. He gives to the poor. He lives in a lavish home. He has friends. What more could he want? He has found his security, but still he lacks something.

Lila, too, has her heart's desire. In her childhood a disastrous wreck scarred her face, completely demolishing her beauty. Fear, insecurity, lack of self-confidence were her trademarks. She, earnestly working her way through school, saved money for an operation to revive her beauty. With her restored loveliness, she knew that no one would look at her now with pity, scorn and derision, but with respect and love. She gained self-confidence and poise. She found her security, but still something was missing.

The Allens, a perfect family—no other family with such love could be found. Their children never felt insecure. Their manners and kindness, learned in the home, were their trademarks. Mr. Allen had an average job with adequate salary. Happiness was the byword. They had found their security; but still something was missing.

What is this something? Each of these people seemed happy, successful in his own way, self-confident, secure. Each had the inward satisfaction of knowing he had built his security for himself and his family by his own personal initiative. What could be missing? These outward, material securities do not replace the inward peace and security implanted so deep in the heart that it is sometimes overlooked by the possessor who is too lazy to search for it. That security can only be found in one place. It is given by one source. It is a gift, yet those who want it have to strive and work just as hard for it as those who find their temporary securities. With this true security there comes a true personal satisfaction. It is the only real, permanent security we find on earth. Again what is this security? This security is the trust and faith with works we place in God, our Father and Maker.
